

EDUCATION IN ST. CLAIR COUNTY
1910

In 1910 B. B. Comer was governor of Alabama, Harry C. Gunnels was state superintendent of education, and B. F. Hammond was superintendent of county schools.

The population of St. Clair County at that time was 20,715. There were 5,718 white children of school age. Of this number 4,931 enrolled in school and the average daily attendance was 3,451. The average length of the term was 100 days.

There were 70 schools in operation during the year, and 16 of these were graded. These schools employed 85 teachers of which 34 were males, and 51 females. These teachers held state certificates distributed as follows: Life Grade 5, First Grade 13, Second Grade 34, and Third Grade 33.

The state appropriation amounted to $19,068.66, poll tax $2,460, and the county one-mill tax $4,512.50. The patrons of the schools contributed during the year $3,750 in tuition and incidentals. The average monthly salary paid the teachers were $58.33.

The public school buildings were valued at $51,000, school furniture $9,400, and libraries $1,280. Six of the buildings were deeded to the state. County superintendent B. F. Hammond indicated in his annual report that a number of new buildings were being constructed with state aid.
